

Hello families,

This past the school community enjoyed a student led assembly where we collectively got to join in song, share learning updates from various classes, and even a few a jokes. A pleasure!

Eco-grief workshop:

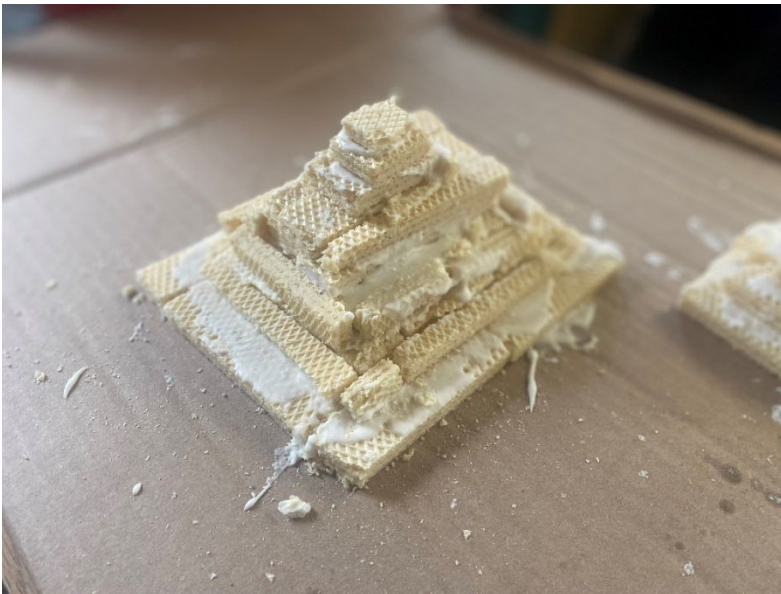

A big thank you to Malin who facilitated Thursday nights Eco-grief workshop. The parents and I were led through some thoughtful activities created to offer all what they needed. It was a unique and nourishing event where people shared what they needed to.

Setting the Mood

Royal Dalton icing anyone!

Heathers class keeps pace with the year theme, with yet another tempting pyramid construction.

The marshmallow structure that was highlighted at the school wide assembly was a hit as rows of kids were licking their lips as it was carried up to the front of the gym. Endless fun.

From Sea to Sea:

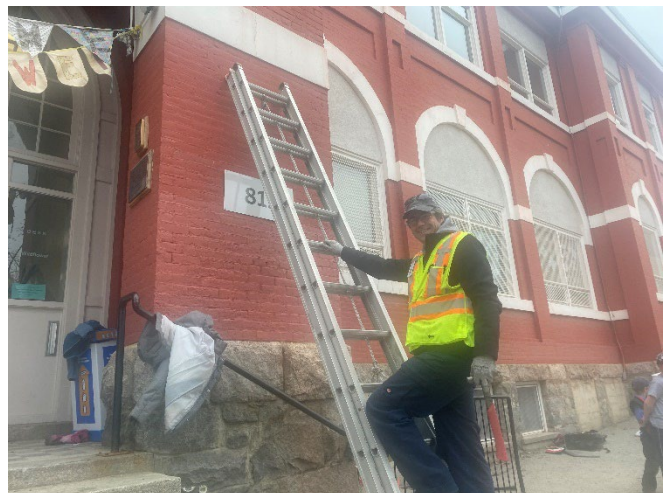

Naomi continues to offer in collaboration with the classroom teachers rich lessons that engage all. In Emily's class accessed prior knowledge of

Make the plan and work the plan:

Thank you to all our partners who support the work in our school and others. They support our recycling programs, build, repair, drive bus, and offer insight into what works in other sites. A huge thank you again, your patience and support is very appreciated.

Our library space is moving along swiftly, with windows ordered, space roughed out. September we will all get to behold a magnificent new space.

Complexities:

While studying the geography of Polynesia, Krista and Kristin's class did art inspired by Polynesian Tapa Cloths. When you get a chance to come into the classroom this picture does not do this art justice. Next level. Well done all!
